Response to Amendment

1. The request for reconsideration filed on 7/7/06 has been entered. Claims 1, 3, 5, 7 and 9-12 remain pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject-matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1, 3, 5, and 7-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Senior (US 2002/0029171 A1) in view of Wiens (US 5,808,894).

Senior discloses a commodity selling system for allowing a user to purchase commodities through a network (page 5, claim 1, lines 1-3), said system comprising: user terminals, each used by a user for connection to the network (fig. 1, Internet Access, Home/Office), said user terminals having a mechanism for identifying one or more purchase candidate commodities for said user (page 4, [0065], 1-5); and a seller server which stores a time of selection of a purchase candidate commodity of said one or more purchase candidate commodities by a user at said user terminal and for storing information related to a plurality of purchase candidate commodities (fig. 1, Web Server), wherein each purchase candidate commodity is selected from a plurality of said commodities appearing on a Web page displayed at one or more user terminals (fig. 8, commodity catalog on the display, and wherein said user terminal displays said information and, if there is any said other information, said other information on said user terminal in response to a request from said user terminal (page 5, claim 1, paragraphs A and B, fig. 11, History of purchase). Senior does disclose selecting an information related to the purchase of commodity; information is based from a group consisting of current price, delivery date, customized specifications, and accessories to be included with a purchase, does not explicitly disclose new information or changes related to a purchase candidate commodity that have occurred since said time of selection of said purchase candidate commodity but Wiens discloses information file that may be viewed by the customer at any time by selecting a menu choice such as "view recent price changes" or the like from the customer computer (col. 7, lines 5-12).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize the updated information as taught by Wiens into the system of Senior because it would allow the customer to have constant access to the most recent prices, availability of services and products offered by the vendor and thus allow the customer to make better decisions concerning whether to purchase particular products or services.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed on 7/7/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that Wiens does not teach "providing current price, delivery date, customized specifications." In response to Applicant's arguments, Wiens does disclose such features of the claimed invention by allowing a customer to have a choice of selecting a menu application which provides such information to said customer. In other words, the customer can have access to this information simply by selecting the needed information under the menu button. Applicant's arguments are deemed unpersuasive, claims 1, 3, 5, and 7-12 are rejected.
